Dr. Mawson's
ANTARCTIC Expedition.

THE MOST IMPORTANT FILM EVENT OF 1913.

Every Australian should see this memorable 3500ft Series.

Crystal Palace Theatre, Commencing MONDAY August 4th.

THESE PICTURES TELL AS WORDS NEVER CAN, THE NATURE OF THE MOST ALONE-TRAPPED SOLITUDES OF THE POLAR REGIONS.

Each phase of Mawson's trip is told in minute detail. The ship in storm seas; life and daily adventures about the main base; difficulties and dangers of dog sled work; wild, desolate scenery; terrific blisters; animal and bird life; aeroplane set in action; various daily scientific duties, etc., etc., all are graphically shown. When it is remembered that the purpose of Mawson's Expedition was SCIENTIFIC EXPLORATION instead of being a dash for the Pole, one can readily understand why THE PICTURES PRESENT SO MUCH THAT IS THRILLING AND INTERESTING, which has been missed by the camera men of previous expeditions.

If ever man has a silent, living testimonial to his bravery and skill, than the name of Frank Hurley, the Expedition's photographer, will live long in Cinematographic Annals. For no matter whether the blizzard blew 50 or 150 miles an hour—no matter how deep the snow how dangerous the icy slope—if there was an interesting bit of action to be caught he braved all to get it. Prof. David, of Sydney University, has pronounced this the finest photographically, of any Antarctic series he has seen.

NO PICTURES LIKE THESE HAVE EVER BEEN SHOWN BEFORE. In all probability no pictures like these will ever be shown again.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY MR. HENRY LUCAS)

The Attorney-General's Future—Blockade of London—Queen Alexandra's Day—Dirck Hartog in Search of Recruits.

WESTMINSTER, June 27.

There is a pretty general consensus of opinion that one result of the proceedings in the Marconi committee will have important influence upon the career of the Attorney-General. It is no secret that he has been destined to succeed to the post of Lord Chief Justice, which, after the Lord Chancellorship, is the chief legal office in the State, when he comes to serve the cause of many friends, it became clear that Lord Alverstone would never be able to resume the duties of the office he long adorned there was daily expectation of announcement that Rufus Isaacs would quit the Parliamentary scene for the judicial bench. His withdrawal at that particular time would have been inconvenient in view of his prominent assistance in upholding the Home Rule and Lord Alverstone accordingly consented to defer his retirement until the Attorney-General's promotion was postponed.

The Prime Minister is not the kind of man to desert a colleague temporarily under a cloud. Had he chanced to have been Prime Minister in the opposite camp, when relentless Ulster rose with determination to hound George Wyndham out of office, he would have taken a turn to look with favouring eye on Home Rule for Ireland, a brilliant career would not have been so hastily cut short. I fancy it will turn out that current opinion as to the immediate future of the Attorney-General will be found to be mistaken. With a considerable section of those who express it, the wish is father to the thought.

The arrival of the President of the French Republic, which has passed through the streets of London through three successive days of the week, has been unforgiven in its slowness. There is, however, a substantial drawback to the perfection of joy. Undeclared but inevitable interference with the business pursuits of the London citizens has been far-reaching. In ordinary times our streets were not sufficiently commodious for their traffic. The President, after all, only an individual. But his temporary addition to the population has for the greater part of three days made some of the principal thoroughfares impassable. It is not only that all traffic along the route is stopped. The police begin the work of the obstruction at an inordinately early hour. How often does one drive from the President's house to St. James's Palace to the Mansion House. Adding an hour for the return journey, the holding-up of the enormous tide of London traffic would not exceed two hours, a terrible experience more or less cheerfully borne. But for something like two hours in advance of the start the police are at work, closing off the street through back streets, paralyzing the public roads, and imposing until inconvenience upon busy people desiring to get about their daily business the quickest way. If fault sounds pour être belle. Also when we are bent upon giving a right hearty welcome to a foreign visitor.

The inquiry into the balance-sheet of ladies who regularly make their show in aid of charities connected with the Queen of Alexandra has pronounced this the finest, photographically, of any Antarctic series he has seen.

that coast. After a copy of the inscription had been taken the plate was reverently and carefully fixed on a new post occupying the position of the old one, at the foot of which it had been found.

The inscription, that is, faulty copies of it, are well known to writers on Australian maritime discovery, but few, if any, have taken the trouble to inquire about its origin and the actual existence of the plate. A date, tin, pewter, or lead, the versions vary, found on an island which bears the name of the alleged discoverer.

For late years I have been making particular inquiries about this plate, thinking that proper place should be in some Australian museum.

At last, in February, I was guided to a certain point, my researches because the locality where the plate was found by the French expedition that so carefully chartered a great portion of our coasts in the early days of the mother colony, is a well determined point, since named Cape Inscription.

That locality was searched by a friend of mine who was exploring that part of Australia, but, without any result.

Meanwhile, my attention was drawn to a passage in Mr. E. Favenc's "History of Australian Exploration," page 436. Favenc

Mr. L. A. COHEN, 7 Moore-street, Sydney.

OBJECT OF THE COMPANY.

The object of the proposed Company is to purchase the Commonwealth Patent Rights from the Ormiston Metal Company, Ltd., of the discovery or invention known as "Ormiston" Metal, along with all the improvements thereto, and to acquire or erect the necessary plant and machinery for the purpose of producing, working, and preparing for market that metal for sale in all the States of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Ormiston, the Inventor of this metal, has agreed to serve the Company in the capacity of Consulting Metallurgist and Engineer for a period of five years from the date of incorporation, and will enter into an agreement with the Company when registered, to that effect.

Within a short distance of Sydney and in various other parts of Australia, there are extensive deposits of aluminium clay, which although at the present time of little value, can be utilized in the manufacture of "Ormiston" Metal, and in their development, will be of great service, and the demand for this metal will increase. The Company will proceed with the establishment of the necessary Factory for manufacturing at the earliest possible moment.

CAPITAL.

The Capital to be raised by the first issue of shares will be placed to the credit of the Company for the purpose of erecting the necessary works in New South Wales for producing "Ormiston" Metal.

After establishing this Factory in New South Wales similar works will, if deemed advisable, be established in the other States. The Company will be registered forthwith.

DESCRIPTION.

"Ormiston" Metal is composed of aluminium and an alloy. The addition of this alloy alters the nature and characteristics of the metal to a considerable extent, removing all the objectionable features of aluminium, and making it a strong and commercially useful metal, while retaining its former lightness and due white appearance. "Ormiston" Metal has the following advantages and properties:

It can be melted in ordinary grades of hardness and tensile strengths, the higher grades being equal to steel.

It has approximately the same weight as aluminium, ranging from about 5 per cent. lighter in the weaker grades to about 6 per cent. heavier in the stronger grades. It can be cast, rolled, drawn, wrought, soldered, braised, and welded, and worked as easily as brass.

It has a brighter appearance than aluminium, and takes a polish equal to silver or nickel, and does not tarnish.

It has a conductivity equal to one-half of copper for equal volumes, while for equal weight its conductivity is 50 per cent. greater than copper.

It can be made so that it is not acted upon by acids, alkaline chloride solutions, salt water, and other destructive conditions.

It is a better casting metal, it will cast better than either of the above metals, and has only 1/16 greater contraction than cast iron.

It can be used for almost all classes of engineering work, for shop fronts, and ornamental work of every description, gas and water fittings, cooking utensils, household fittings, dining table appointments, brewing vessels, marine engine, and steamship fittings.

It will be able to advantageously replace aluminium, steel, iron, copper, brass, most metals, tin, nickel, zinc, gunmetal, and plated goods, etc.

It is an ideal metal where lightness combined with strength is required.

The perfecting of the process for making this metal has, like many other inventions, been arrived at after a long period of experimental work, and required seven years' close study on the part of Mr. Ormiston to bring it to a practical stage.

Since the introduction of electrolytic aluminium, the production of aluminium and the consequent reduction in price of that metal from £250 per ton to its present value of £85 per ton, the manufacturers of the world have been trying to discover some means of finding the stability of aluminium, recognising the enormous commercial value of such a metal if it was fixed from those impurities. Mr. Ormiston's process has solved this vital point, and has produced a metal which is the same weight as aluminium, yet free of all its impurities and draw backs, and his discovery is of much commercial importance that it would be impossible to estimate its value.

TESTS.

Various tests have been made of this metal, and copies of the reports issued in respect of same and also the results are given with respect to the electrical qualities of Ormiston Metal, which can be inspected at the warehouse of Messrs. F. A. Henriques, Ltd., 54 Clarence-street, Sydney.

CONTRACTS.

The only Contract entered into on behalf of the Company is an Agreement dated the Eleventh day of July, 1913, between the Company of the first part, Harry Ormiston, Ormiston of the second part, and Walter Linton as Trustees for this Company of the third part, a copy of which is to be inspected at the offices of Messrs. John Williamson and Sons, Solicitors to the Company.

The usual brokerage will be paid in connection with the flotation of the Company.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

July, 1913. There have been a sufficient number of shares already applied for to warrant the Directors in taking a lease of extensive Engineering Works, which they have done in order to commence immediately some important orders already placed with them.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

To the Directors of ORMIS METAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY, LTD.
Gentlemen.—

Herewith I hand you the sum of being a deposit of 2/6 per Share on Shares of £1 each in the above Company. I request you to allot me that number of Shares upon the terms of the Company's Memorandum and Articles of Association, and agree to pay to me my agreed number that may be allotted to me, and to pay the further instalment of 2/6 per Share on allotment, and to pay the sum due in respect of the said Shares by calls of 1/ per Share to be made at periods of not less than one month, and I hereby authorize you to register me as the holder of the Shares allotted to me hereunder.

REAL ESTATE.NOTES OF THE WEEK.

The real estate market shows no sign of improvement. The tendency set-back which has received, through the smallpox outbreak and the unusual wet season, is not yet over, but one pleasing feature about this week's volume of business is that it includes the sale of four large properties in Paddington. Richardson and Wrench sold a city property for £15,500. The particulars are not given.

Mrs. Raine and Horne sold Gladstone Chambers, Pitt-street, for £10,000. The purchasers are Messrs. H. J. Taylor and G. Greenwell.

Johns and Son, 10 George-street, next to the Bank of New Zealand, was sold this week by Messrs. Raine and Horne. The price did not exceed £10,000. The title to be taken up by the vendor.

The fourth sale of city property this week is the purchase by the Real Estate Agents' Association of the property in Castlereagh-street, Chatswood, belonging to Mr. W. W. Wren. The association intend to have it headed up there, and to have one auction room common to all. It will be the real property market on Exchange.

There was a much better attendance at the indoor sales this week, and a fair proportion of the properties offered found new owners. The bidding was very lively, and the prices were similar to those of the previous week.

Mrs. Raine and Horne sold Gladstone Chambers, Pitt-street, for £10,000. The buyers are Messrs. H. J. Taylor and G. Greenwell.

A property in George-street, next to the Bank of New Zealand, was sold this week by Messrs. Raine and Horne. The price did not exceed £10,000. The title to be taken up by the vendor.

The fifth sale of city property this week is the purchase by the Real Estate Agents' Association of the property in Castlereagh-street, Chatswood, belonging to Mr. W. W. Wren. The association intend to have it headed up there, and to have one auction room common to all. It will be the real property market on Exchange.

BUCCHAREST, Aug. 1.

An informal discussion among the delegates preceded the meeting of the peace conference yesterday.

The chief obstacle to an early settlement is the Greek determination to secure Kavala, which has great value as the centre of the natural port of Thrace, had Greece announced that Dodec Apache is their port.

The Bulgarians have announced that they intend to construct a railway connecting Sevastopol with Kavala, hoping thus to gain Roumania's support.

Austria, France, and Italy already support Roumania's claim.

VIOLENT FIGHTING AT KRESNA.

LONDON, Aug. 1.

The "Daily Telegraph" was correspondent that Sunday's battle at Kresna was really a series of skirmishes for possession of the mountain peaks.

At one point two opposing companies each shot with stones at a range of 15 yards across a gully. Eventually the Greeks won the battle of the Bulgarians.

Suddenly, about 8 o'clock, the Bulgarian regiments retreated, and there was disclosed a great host of fresh troops, numbering 12,000.

These newcomers at once delivered a vigorous attack. It was a crucial test of the morale of the Greeks, but they remained steady, and pumped the counter-attack home after making a dash for the commanding Bulgarian heights. Sections of the latter were captured, but the others charged on.

There were dozens of bloody bayonet combats, and eventually the weary Greek troops, who had had neither food nor water since morning, were driven back.

A thousand infantrymen in reserve, however, enabled the Greek centre to return, and the Greeks exchanged a vicious rifle fire with the Bulgarians.

Further Greek reinforcements arrived with a number of machine guns, and they repelled the Bulgarian right.

In a comparatively short time the Bulgarians lay dead at the police station. The Greeks were too weak to pursue them—when the Greeks retreated they simply lay down in the ground where they had fought and slept.

The sixth Greek division alone lost 1200 out of 12,000 men, and the total Greek loss is estimated at 3000.

The Bulgarians probably just as many.

The bodies of several Greeks who had been captured by the Bulgarians on Sunday were subsequently found with their eyes gouged out and their ears and noses cut off. One man, who had been so mutilated, was still alive.

PROPOSED MONTENEGRIN LOAN.

LONDON, Aug. 1.

The Ambassador's conference has recommended the loan of £1,000,000 to assist her to carry out a reorganization scheme, and the draining of a portion of Lake Skadar, in consideration of the situation of Albania.

PANAMA EXHIBITION.

LONDON, July 31.

The report that the British Government will decline to take part in the "Panama" exhibition in San Francisco has been officially confirmed.

No reason for this decision has been given.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

BORSALINO HATS.

BORASALINO, GIUSEPPE, AND FILIO.

SOCIETÀ ANONIMA, ALESSANDRIA, ITALY, V. COLLITI BROTHERS, MELBOURNE.

In the Judgment of the High Court in this action, delivered by Mr. Justice Rich on 27th June, 1912, when the Defendants' Appeal was dismissed with costs, it is stated:—

"The Plaintiff's evidence, CORROBORATED as it is by the Defendants' witness, coupled with the answers to interrogatories (Ex. P. and Q.), is CONCLUSIVE PROOF that the word 'BORSALINO' has not been used or registered by the Plaintiff, and that the word 'BORSALINO' is not a well-known trade mark which was not, and cannot be, registered by the trade dealing in hats."

"It is not necessary that the person purchasing goods should know the manufacturer by name, and have no idea who made them; all he need know is that the goods are well-made."

"Careful consideration of the evidence, which does not depend on its veracity and number of witnesses, leads to the conclusion that the word 'BORSALINO,' which at first was generally used as a surname, accepted and retained at all events in Victoria, a secondary meaning denoting the hats manufactured by the Plaintiff."

IN ORDER TO REMOVE ANY MISUNDERSTANDING THAT HAS BEEN CAUSED BY CERTAIN ADVERTISING APPEARING IN CONNECTION WITH THE ACTION, THE TRADE AND PUBLIC ARE NOTIFIED THAT THE HATS MANUFACTURED BY BORSALINO, GIUSEPPE, AND FRATELLO, SOCIETÀ ANONIMA, ALESSANDRIA, ITALY, ARE THE ONLY HATS THAT CAN BE SOLD AS "BORSALINO" HATS.

THE QUESTION OF THE DAY.

The question of to-day, of to-morrow, and of every succeeding day, is—

HAVE YOU USED PEARS SOAP? If you have not, you have not done your duty by your skin and complexion. On the other hand—if you have, and on the skin generally—you have used PEARS, you can feel happy, for you will have done the best that possibly can be done for the skin's health and beauty. There can be no question about that.

PEARS has been making beautiful complexions for nearly 100 years.

JOINERY—“APPRECIATED”—JOINERY.

Our Joinery Works are not the largest on the planet, still they are growing. Ever since we started facturing we have insisted on producing a good, uniform, and well-finished product, and we are now in the right and good-mechanised, and encouraged to turn out good work. That our efforts are appreciated is proved by the many letters of commendation we receive from our joinery shops.
